Student of Information technology, starting Back-End developer

Andrii Norets

I'm a student of Information Science, with interest in backend development. I'm always looking forward to learning new things, and taking on extra responsibilities to grow as software engineer and professional.

Thats my GitHub account and Codewars account.

Work experience

Trainee Visimind

June 2023 - August 2023 | Poland

- Scripting for LIDAR Data Analysis. LIDAR research, figuring out how it works and how to process company-provided data efficiently. I've been using Python, Anaconda environment and Jupiter Notebook compiler.

Assistant RES-SERWIS

May 2022 - up to now | Poland

- Service of heat pumps, working with electronics. Using specialized instruments to diagnose problems

Projects

- LIDAR data analysis program

  Software for internal data analysis. Using LIDAR data, processing it through data pipeline and subsequently generating images and data spreadsheets.
  Technologies: Python(Pandas,Numpy,Matplotlib,Seaborn), Jupyter Notebook.

- Django Authentication

  The Django Authentication project is a web application that performs user authentication and authorization within the Django framework. It includes features like user registration, sign-in, writing and reading user data to and from the database. This project has been created by me to deepen my understanding of core user management workflows in Django-based web applications.
  Technologies: Python(Django Framework 5.0.1 version), Bootstrap(3.3.7 version), CSS&HTML, Visual Studio Code.
